Discovering Cyprus

Wine Villages

Cyprus has a long-standing tradition of wine making, and produces a wide variety of wines ranging from the ancient sweet-tasting Commandaria, to more well-known global varieties, including Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon and Shiraz. While the island's wine industry has been thoroughly modernised and greatly expanded, there are still many villages that produce wine in the old traditional ways, and these make for a fun day of exploring.

Blue Flags

Paphos boasts a total of 16 beaches awarded with the Blue Flag certification, accounting for more than 20 percent of the Blue Flags in Cyprus. This comes as no surprise from a city that was recently awarded the Gold Quality Coast Prize, recognised for its water cleanliness, biodiversity, environment and much more.

The Island of Saints

Cyprus has been called "the island of saints." Some 240 local saints are commemorated on its calendar. The history of the Church of Cyprus has undergone several important stages, the memory of which is alive in beautiful old monasteries and churches around the island. Pilgrims and tourists from all over the world come to Cyprus to visit its holy places. The island has a great number of Byzantine monuments. UNESCO has included 10 of them in its list of World Heritage Sites due to their historical and artistic significance and value.

The Ideal Golfing Climate

Cyprus has uniquely positioned itself as the ideal golfing destination in the Mediterranean sphere.
